Invisible Nat

Introducing a major breakthrough in tape color technology with the new K-Tape® My Skin... a revolutionary skin color-matching system.

A man and a woman are shown in athletic poses, stretching against large rolls of K-Tape. The man in the foreground is leaning forward, reaching towards his foot. The woman in the background is in a lunge position, looking to the side. The background consists of large rolls of K-Tape in various shades of brown and orange.

Skin Color-Ma

The image is composed of three vertical panels, each showing a different skin tone. The left panel shows a person with light brown skin, the middle panel shows a person with dark brown skin, and the right panel shows a person with very dark brown skin. Each panel has a large, irregularly shaped patch of the same skin tone on the chest and shoulder area. The text 'tching System' is written in white across the middle of the three panels. The text 'Brown' is in the top left, 'Dark Brown' is in the top middle, and 'Very Dark Brown' is in the top right. The number '5' is in the bottom right.

High-End Quality

The Cotton

Only high-quality cotton from one supplier is used for K-Tape. This quality guarantees a fabric structure with homogeneous thread density and virtually knot-free manufacture.

The Elastic Thread

If a thread loses its elasticity, the therapeutic effect is lost. This is why we use the best quality elastane thread for K-Tape. This ensures consistent elasticity levels throughout the entire period of use.

The Dyes

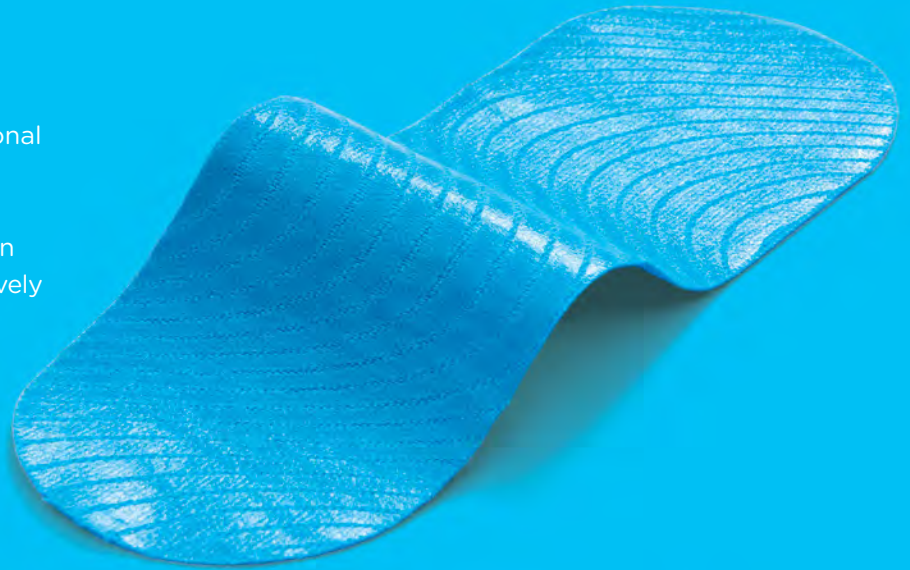

You need to be certain that dyes and adhesive do not harbor risks to the skin or health when applying a tape adhering to the skin for up to 7 days. We use high-quality dyes for K-Tape, supplied by Dystar. The reason: Dystar products possess the OEKO-TEX Standard 100 label and are safety approved for use in baby clothing. K-Tape is suitable for a variety of applications and a wide range of users.

The Physiobond[®] Adhesive

Only K-Tape is equipped with professional grade Physiobond adhesive.

Physiobond is a registered trademark in Europe and the USA and is used exclusively for K-Tape. We recognize the quality of an adhesive depends not only on the choice of raw materials, but also in the manufacturing and finishing processes.

The objective during production is to create long polymer chains enabling the adhesive to anchor effectively onto the skin. This is followed by a complex temperature-time procedure to remove skin-irritating residual monomers. It is only then, that you can create a first-class tape that establishes a new standard.

The Backing Paper

Typically, backing paper is only there to protect the adhesive coating. However, with K-Tape, the backing paper has additional practical functions as well.

Paper Fibers

The correct orientation of paper fibers makes the backing paper more stable and K-Tape pre-cuts deform significantly less than those with conventional backing paper.

Prestretch

It is necessary to prestretch the cotton fabric during production to ensure crease-free manufacturing. It's an important production procedure we use for quality assurance.

K-Tape is applied to the backing paper with 10% prestretch, automatically giving it the ideal amount of prestretch for muscle technique taping. By using the correct technique to apply the tape, it is possible to transfer the required amount of prestretch to the skin. This enables K-Tape to always be pulled off the backing paper with the same amount of tension. Its handling always feels the same... every time you use it.

The Cut

Quite simply, it is the cut that ultimately demonstrates the outstanding quality of K-Tape.

A clean, straight cut not only looks professional, it also guarantees better adhesion and duration of wear. If the threads are torn by an unclear cut or if a skewed position causes the outer threads to be frequently cut, the tape unravels at a faster rate and loses its adhesiveness. We therefore take time in production, following a meticulous approach and using high-quality tools, to produce the best cut K-Tape possible.

Benefits for Therapist and Physician

Patients receive a high-quality product, recognized worldwide for its performance quality. Skin irritation is nearly non-existent, which means no patient complaints. Its natural materials contain no harmful substances whatsoever.

K-Tape may potentially adhere to the skin for one week. Many inexpensive tape substitutes adhere for just 2 to 3 days, meaning that they have to be changed frequently. Since patients usually have to pay for all treatments themselves, frequent renewal means higher costs for both patient and therapist.
